of the white man, after they have lived together in the same country so many years? I can tell ou, gentlemen, it is because they become stran-ers to each other. Let us get acquainted once fore, and all the difficulties will be removed.—

of the white man, after they have lived together in the same country so many years? I can tell you, gentlemen, it is because they become strangers to enth other. Let us get acquainted once more, and all the difficulties will be removed.—I applause?

But it is said by some that it will never do to entranchise the colored man. They desire to see limit colonized—sent back to the wilds of Aftien, heyond the bine waters of the great occan. How is that? Has the surface of America contracted, grown shaller, so that there is no room for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatitived for lack of broom for those who have lived here for centuries? Shall we be expatited the lack to the country, where the bones of our ancestors are laid, and around whose altar the warmest affectious of our hearts are entwined? [Applause.]

But let me illustrate the objection to the enfranchisoment of the colored man in my feeble way. It reminds me of the joung man of him, so that he cannot conceal at. Ah, says a friend to him, that is a fine borse of yours, but you seem afraid of him? will you seell him, but he is valuable and I can't sell him. So they seem to be afraid, like the young man of this horse, that if they put us in the political harness we will run away with the concern and adminge the body politic [Laughter and applause.] That is the way they rejord us they were afraid of us; but we are not going to full their fears. We are going to work in the political harness with a good will, we are going to work in the political harness with a good will, we are going to full that we now ask is t driving, although he is very much alraid of him, so that he cannot conead it. Ab, says a friend to him, that is a fine horse of yours, but you seem afraid of him? I've will you seel him? No, replies the young man; I'm afraid of him, what he is valuable and I can't sell him. So they seem to be afraid, like the young man of this horse, that if they put us in the political harness we will run away with the concern and damage the body politic [Laughter and applause.] That is the way they regard us; they are afraid of us; but we are not going to fulfil their fears. We are going to work in the political harness with a good will; we are going to their to help to pull the State back into the Union; but all that we now ask is that the buckles may not be drawn so tight—[sensation and cheers—for we have grown a little corpulent, politically speaking. [Continued applause.]

But we have these prefunites to overcome. Yet one moment's caudid reflection would be sufficient to remove such wrong impressions, so much indujted. Now let us look at it. What is the have the such wrong impressions, so much indujted. Now let us look at it. What is the intervention of the arm of the present so ignand a record? With all their wrongs and sufficient to prove the such as the word were battling for their free.

ichellion? Can my nation on earth present so grand a record? With all their wrongs and sufferings upon them, with a knowledge, that their Union Friends were battling for their freedom, they stryed at the homes of their masters, who were absent lighting to keep them in slavery, and protected the defenseless females with a wondurful fidelity. What other people ander the camppy of heaven would have done this thing? What nobler exhibition of self-sacrifice can be furnished in the history of mankind? True to their institutes, they continued on the farms, tilling the soil, and in doing so they raised to themselves a monument high as the heavens and deep as the great sea. [Prolonged cheering.] What man can now tolerate unworthy prejudices against our race? In our old relations; and if we gut thereighly negative the our new, we shall succeed as well in the future as we ald in the post. In conclusion allow me to repeat that this is the prondest moment of my life. When I behold these starspangled banners, spreading in beauty above an assemblage of people without regard to race or color, this motto of "Union, Liberty, Equality" carried into practical operation, sir, upon this the first occasion in the Siste of North Cardina, my heart swells with enortions which can secrecity full intellight in the nation. (Cree of here to consolidate my people and organize them, for the colored people are a loyal race. They are not too Ignorant to be so. Go to any plantation, wake up the most stupid negro, and ask him if he loses liberty, and he will answer you, yet. [Cheers] Now, do not run the ignotiant ticket. I tell you the negro knows enough to dividually fruit and for The race we had been supported by the gradity of the stock and the work much in the contraction of the stock and the work much in the contraction of the stock and the work much in the stock and the work much to distinguish friend and foe. The man who goes on the ignorant platform will certainly go down. [Applaine.] The colored people will vote all right, for they will stand by the Union and its friends.

Mr. President, I have said that the future is bright. I can see, sir, the beacon sun of liberty rieing over the dissolving storn-cloud of war, gilding the whole nation with the light of its splender. [Choers] Though the pointent waters have been disturbed and shaken to the dregs, I can behold the old Ship of State still breasting the billows triumphantly, her prow pointed homeward over the now subsiding waves of a great commotion, on longer bearing the full carcias of slavery upon her shaing decks, but which thank God, has been washed overboard in the tunnult, and sank forever in the fathernless waters (Great sensition) I can behold the cagle of America, the free bird of the freest flowerment of earth, shedding from the initions over every section of our befored country peace, protection and prosperly. Whence come these visions of a glorious future? It is the work of God bluned, who has resolved that all men shall be free and equal. [Tremendom applause.]

At the conclusion of his cloquent address, Mr. Harris was invited to the Pre-adent's seat, and presided for the balance of the evening over the deliberations of the Convention

Miss Dix, the Philauthropist.

In an exchange we find the following admirable pen and ink portrait of Miss Dix, the philauthropist, which will be read with much interest by her namerous friends and admirers be readouts:

"Here, then, is Miss Dix: A senate, kindly-repressioned lady in black, really about fifty-free years of age, but looking younger. Rather above the medium size, and, when standing, presenting rather a commanding figure. Her hair is not very dark, and the few silver threads are only observable in the strongest light. Here's, the distinguishing feature, strikes you at first as black, it is no clear and lintroins when she speaks, but it is, in lace, gray. Her face is attractive, and while demoting strong character, is lighted up by a very conclisionty smile, which seems to ripple about the eyes rather than the lips. She dresses in black, and with a becoming severity of style. About the neck she wears a white gause kerchief, crossed in front and fast and the standard of the control of

Black Eloquence.

While the Union Convention was in session at Raleigh, North Carolina, a few days since, outside meetings were tield, at one of which a colored delegate from Wake county made a epecch which is well worth preserving. We quote from the Raleigh Standard:

Mr. James Henry Harris, of Wake county, colored orator, was next called upon to address the meeting. He call that so many able speeches had already been delivered that he felt somewhat ture to speak, and alter the true sentiments of his heart at this the proudest moment of his life, when all men met free and capal for the first time beneath the dome of the Capitol of the Old North State.

What is the real object of this convention, gentenents! Why have we assembled? Nort of the machinery of reconstruction, but to inquire into the best means of working under the supplemental bill which Congress has enacted for our benefit. To organize for that purpose is the great object of this convention. But just here in the propose the major of the white same lived together as irlends—such friends as master and shave could be. Now the negro is free, all of the mains of the rouse discovered to the sone grand purpose in the minds of the most distinguished statemen of the main of the transmitten of the main of the the same country of the white same lived together as irlends—such friends as master and shave could be. Now the negro is free, all of a sudden the whites and blacks become unaquanted with each other. For the Grat time the world monopolitum, and her other. I Laughter and choers I How is this?—Why is it that the white man does not know what disposition to make of the reform, or the negro free, all of the minds of the most distinguished statemen of the mind with each other. For the Grat time the world monopolitum, and her other. I Laughter and choers I How is this?—The first time the white man does not know what disposition to make of the reform, or the negro free, all of the politure of the mind with each other. For the Grat her to drink to the full of the cup of wietchquices and shame.

Now, at the time we write, the mother and daughter are playing an engagement, so-called, at a miserable variables concert room which the citizens of our neighboring city of Jackson allow to pollute their nidst. Here, surrounded by the dregs of society, themselves no better than the worst about them, these two ake out a miserable subsistence. Bloated by intemperance, dissipation and licentlousness, for the crime of drunkenness rarely goes alone, and distigured almost beyond recognition, it seems as though liquor had done its worst with this wreiched couple; that from the topmest round of the ladder of profusional fame these two, who so hately delighted audiences of the best society, and fallen to the atternost depths of degradation.—But if there is a lower depth than this, assuredly they will find it. In the rain which liquor brings there is no half-way stopping place.

I hold, sir, that the sin of slavery was a national sin. But hold, sir, in addition, that we must bury the dead past. Let us sink its memory a thomsand fathoms in the ocean of oblivion.
Recently I have traveled in the Northern Sintes and consulted with the first gentlemen of the nation. One thing is fixed: they have determined to reconstruct these States on a thoroughly loyal basis. They have sided me and sent mulare to consolidate my people and organize them, for the colored people are a loyal race.

The Democrat's correspondent with General Hancock's Indian expedition, writing from Fortlarker the 2d, says: A council was held at Fort Dodge on the 24th ult., between Maj. Dodge and several Chiefs of the Kiowar. The latter pro-tosant much friendship for the whites and deseveral Chiefs of the Kiowas. The latter protossed much friendship for the whites and destruct to be at peace with them, but stated that the Biackinet, Sioux, Choyennes and Cananches are determined on war and will have it. They spake about several Northern tribes banding together for war, making overtures to Southern tribes to join them, and predicting the whites will have their hands full. The indications all favor

Washington, April 11.

In the Supreme Court this afternoon Mr. O'Connor asked leave to place in the hands of the Clerk a bill of complaint of the State of Georgia to onjoin Secretary famion, General Grant and General Pope from executing the "Act for the more efficient government of the rebot States," and which he would to-morrow ask leave to file.

The Court replied that the gentleman might now file the incident for the the motion. This bill differed from that of Mississippi in the fact that he President is not named. He felt this duty to say that the Secretary of War desired that be should take on himself the entire management of the case on the part of the defense.

The Court, in reply to an expressed desire that an arrangement be made so that both the case of Miss-slephy and Georgia be hard to-morrow and an order of argument be made so that both the case of Miss-slephy and Georgia be hard to-morrow and an order of argument be made so that both the case of Miss-slephy and Georgia be hard to-morrow and an order of argument be made so that both the case of Miss-sleph and Georgia be hard to-morrow and an order of argument be made so that both the case of Miss-sleph and Georgia be hard to-morrow and an order of argument be understood, said it would think, alout the matter, as it was not prepared to make a definite statemen.

United States Senate--Extra Session.

Washington, April 11.

The President submitted the credentials of Scunter Bayand, who qualified by taking the oath to support the Constitution of the United States, subscribing to the Congressional oath of loyalty.

Mr. Sunner offered a resolution that the President be requested to lurish the Senator, if in the could be computed as constitution of the control of t loyalty.

Mr. Summer offered a resolution that the President be reque-ted to furnish the Senator, if in his opinion commutible with the public service, copies of any official opinions which have been given by the Attorney General, Solicitor of the Treasury, or hy any other officer of the Gavernment, on the interpretation of the set regulating the tenure of the office, and especially with regard to appointments by the President to affect during the recess of Congress

Mr. Summer said he understood an opinion had been given which went far to nullfy the recent act of Congress. It would thus seem we had millification here in Washington, in the Executive branches of the Government. He understood that necording to these opinions the President was to exercise the power of appointment during the recent act of Congress, notwithstanding the recent act of Congress which undertook to regulate the tenure of office. Now all know the taients of lawyers, and it was sometimes said that lawyers could drive a coach and six through an act of Parliament, or even of Congress. Perhaps the Administration was about to drive a coach and six through the recent act of Congress. In other words, it was about to force on the country officers who cannot be officers under the laws. It seemed important that before the Senate adjourns it should know the precise study of the question. They should understand whether any such opinion has been given and the reasons for it.

On motion of Mr. Williams, the Senate went into Executive session.

Supt. H. D. Persons made some remarks, in which he said teachers had a right to call pupils to account for infsconduct from the time they lest home till they returned, but could not be held responsible for their conduct to and Iron

After remarks by Miss Diekson and others, Mr. C. F. Chamberlain wished to know if it would be right for a teacher to punish a pupil for misdemeanors that were committed on the Sabbath He mentioned an example that came under his notice, where an unruly boy wilfully throw stones through the school house window on the Sabbath, which conduct the teacher punished him for (having good proof of the matter) on Monday morning. Would the law bear him out n such a course?

Sunt. Persons said it would not. One lady thought it would be a pleasant duty

o administer a little correction Another thought that Justice to the scholar reuired that he should be punished.

Question: " Is it true that the professional certificates of this State, one and all, are soon to arcome of no effect 3.5

Answered by Superintendent C. H. Dale, as follows: " All professional certificates will be annulled June 1st, 1868. Professional certifientes will, after that time, be granted only for the term of the Superintendent granting such and will be void one year after the expiration of enid term."

Regular meeting called to order by the Presi-intendent Persons. Some excellent blats were given to teachers upon school organization, chool business, and school government. Long Division was elucidated by Prot. L. M Holibs, of Lancaster, who gave some very practical instruction in regard to teaching beginner in Division.

Somewhat indical ground was taken on this sub jeet, which led to an animated discussion and nded to enliven the proceedings. Recess of 10 minutes.

Select bits of school-roum experience, from grave to gay, from lively to serious, were listened to from Rev. L. M. Hobbs, SuperIntendent Perons, Messrs, Kinknide, Burwell, Benu, Rittenhause and others. Report of Critics.

It would be preferable that the pound for confining cattle and other animals which may be found running at large in the chy in violation of the ordinances should, I think, belong to the city, and the fitte to the land upon which it is placed should be vested in the city, or we should have the lease of the same for a long term of years. Our efforts should, I think, be directed rath arto the adoption of measures for the prevention of crime than to the punishment of criminals; therefore, I would recommend the employment of an adequate police force. The condition of our streets and thoroughfare The condition of our streets and thoroughfares will demand, and no doubt receive from you, proper consideration. Of the improvements of streets which were projected and commenced one year since, very much remains unfluished.—
It is carnestly to be hoped that as soon as spring its sufficiently advanced we may be able to complete the improvements as contemplated and commenced last spring. Ool. E. A. L. Roussuts—Dear Sir. Yours of the 11th instant, selling for information as to the results from the explosion of the Roberts' Torped on various wells on this form, Is at hand, and we take great pleasure in characteristic and the property of the pro put in, and is now purposes our exercise various and conton that it will soon it was, set it is increasing both is gas and oil.

Three other wells in the same neighborhood have been brought up from purpose, in the aggregate obout crossing. One of them is now flowing and the other two are pumping. They will, to all appearances, reach a much higher point.

We believe there has not been a single exception on this farm where your Torpode has not greatly boundled the well operated upon. All these been greatly bounded to well operated upon. All these been greatly bounded the well operated appears and the well operated appears and in the well the entire express was signal to two days, and he belleves at the have tight these have equally havorable opinions.

The horrows, as nearly as we can has in the eight wells mentioned above, taken together, is tully 100 por cent, over the highest point these wells ever reached before the use of the Torpode, and 1000 per cent, ever their product at the time in Torpode was exploited in them, being 60 barrels total thefore the exploits and 63 after Euch results cannot fail to be substacetory in the highest effects.

BARROWS, KRIRR & CO.

The Propose Toron to explosion and 63 after the control of the translated to the first the substacetory in the highest points.

Topenous for Oil Wills—More Empirical Results—Colonel Roburts is constantly receiving congrainations upon the success of his invention for resultations upon the success of his invention for resultations upon the success of his invention for resultations upon the success of his invention for resultation of alhers. The Toppelio is evidently deathed to effect a complete revolution in oil mining, and the bone field results can searcely be overrated. The following critificates are from two well-known producers at Petrolouin Contro. Their testimony as to the success of the application is perfectly conductor production at Petrolouin Contro. Their testimony as to the success of the application is perfectly conducted Perfectly and their following results. Bioon Farm, January 23, 186e,

We, whose names are heated for the state of and of two Toppeloss in the thrul sandruck resulted in the production of a fully yield of tron sixty to eighty barriet of oil. In view of these facts, we confidently recommend a trial of the Roberts' Torpudo to all well owners whose wells are either day holes or have ceased to produce. We consider the invention to the one of great practical value, as evidenced by the conversion of this well from one of no value whater to one worth many thousand deltars.
